

WAR WILL MAKE ALL NATIONS ARM, SAYS SPAIN'S KING

Pacifism and General Disarmament Made Impossible by Fate of Belgium.

SOCIALISM WILL GROW.

"Will Daily Become More Governmental," He Says—
Trip to U. S. Given Up.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—King Alfonso of Spain has had to abandon plans for a visit to America because of the war, he told Senor Cevillier, an Argentine journalist, during an audience at which the conflict now raging was freely discussed.

"It is quite impossible to prophesy when the war will end," the monarch is quoted as saying in a review of the conversation printed by the Espana Review. "It was my pet dream to visit America, but I shall not be able to go now for years. When the war is over the work here will be enormous. To hasten reforms we shall have to abandon all outward forms and if I do not deceive myself the role Spain will have to play will be such that her progress, which hitherto has been at a snail's pace, will be increased to a tremendous speed."

"The same progress may be expected for all humanity if the war results in general disarmament," observed Senor Cevillier.

"Ah, no," returned King Alfonso. "After the war nations will arm more than ever. When one sees a country like Belgium, neutralized by agreement of all nations, eventually finding no other defense than her own armed force, it is easy to understand that other countries, big and little, realize that to exist it is indispensable to work in times of peace and surround themselves with the most positive of guarantees."

"Does not Your Majesty think the lower social orders will exercise pressure on the governments to prevent them from increasing the burden of armed peace?" asked the interviewer.

"I think, and you may repeat this," replied the Spanish ruler, "that Socialism will become daily more governmental and that Socialists will obtain satisfaction for their more just aspirations by legal methods without having to use violence, but I think also that as they evolve they will find out they have been deceived by certain politicians who have made of international pacifism a banner on which they have lived."

"Even the pacifists will recognize after this war that while the instincts of human nature remain unmodified there are no better safeguards for right in international questions than foresight and strength. Besides, after the war, there will be no unemployment. On the contrary there will be work for all and it will be necessary to work. The world will continue to be what it is and in ten or twelve years we shall ask ourselves, astounded, 'But what happened?'"

Girls of To-Day Are Taught Everything Except to Be WIVES and MOTHERS

WOODALL CHAPMAN

So it's a Sorry Day for the Twentieth Century
Coelebs, "the Man in Search of a Wife," Who Looks for Knowledge of Life in the Mate He Expects to Meet.

But Mrs. Wood-Allen Chapman Has a Remedy for
All This, and Unconsciously She Answers
Mrs. Amelia Barr's Charge of the Prevalence of Childless Wives.

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

"The girl of to-day is trained to be everything except a wife and a mother. There are colleges which give her the A. B. degree, there are schools of fine arts, there are hospital training schools, there are trade and business schools, there are institutions which fit the modern girl for almost every activity except the one to which she is most likely to be called."

"Why should our young women be expected to look upon motherhood as a dignified profession, when there isn't any school that offers any preparation for such a profession, and when the attitude of the world at large seems to be that any motherhood—whether successful or unsuccessful—is enough?"

That is certainly one answer to the charge made by Mrs. Amelia E. Barr, the novelist, who blames the modern woman for not having more children and for not giving more personal care to those she has.

The answer summarized above comes from Mrs. Woodallen Chapman, who, like Mrs. Barr, is a mother, a writer and a firm believer in the importance of parenthood. It was Mrs. Chapman's mother, Mary Wood-Allen, who founded American Motherhood, the first magazine in this country to deal exclusively with the problems of mothers and children, and Mrs. Chapman herself was for a number of years the editor of this magazine.

NO EXCUSE FOR DODGING MOTHERHOOD NOW.

Moreover, she is about to take charge of an institution she hopes will fill in the modern girl's education, that very gap through which the potential motherfamilies now escape.

On the first of October a school for wives and mothers will be opened in New York, with Mrs. Woodallen Chapman as its dean. In this institution the young girl will be taught what qualities she should cultivate if she would achieve matrimonial and maternal success. She will also learn what are the desirable characteristics for husbands and fathers, and how to read the characters of the young men in her own social circle. Furthermore, she is to be given specific courses in household management, cooking, sewing, home nursing, baby hygiene, child study and personal adornment. Could Coelebs himself ask for more?

In response to many questions Mrs. Chapman outlined the plan and scope of the new school when I talked with her in her home at No. 39 Bennett Avenue. It is to be located at No. 310 West Seventy-second Street, under the aegis of the Stoddard School, and its full name and title is "The Mary Wood-Allen School for Study of Life Problems."

"I named it for my mother," explained Mrs. Chapman, "because it is planned as the flowering of one of her plans. There is no nobler calling than that of parenthood," she went on to say. "The day will come when the nation itself will awaken to the dignity and worth of this profession of parenthood, and will encourage and, it may be, even provide adequate courses of instruction in those subjects which will prepare in a practical manner for the responsibility of that great calling."

NATURAL DESIRE FOR PARENTHOOD IS DISCOURAGED.

"It seems to me that our young people with such instruction but we have unconsciously discouraged their natural desire for parenthood. A father and mother try to arouse gratitude in their children by talking about the parental struggles and sacrifices. Too often the reaction of the children is something like this: 'Well, if we've made such suffering for ourselves by not having any children! Yet if the question were put to them the most self-sacrificing parents would say that children bring infinitely more happiness than pain. Instead of adding the younger generation because they have so few children I think we might try to show them the joy they miss, try to teach them that even the burdens of par-

ARCHIBALD CHARGES HE WAS TRICKED INTO TAKING DUMBA'S NOTE

Knew Nothing of German or Austrian Plans, He Declares on Sailing.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 8.—(Central News).—Prior to his sailing today for America, James F. J. Archibald, the American correspondent who was arrested while bearing despatches from Ambassador Dumba to the Austrian government, gave an interview to Central News.

"I am absolutely innocent of what the papers charge," he said. "I know nothing and I spoke to nobody about the plans to thwart the manufacture of munitions or disturb the Austrian labor situation in the United States. I am an English-American, neither German nor Austrian in origin. I assure you that the contents of the letter which I carried were absolutely unknown to me."

"Shortly before the Rotterdam left New York the Secretary of the Austrian Embassy came to me to say farewell. During our conversation he remarked to me casually, 'Will you oblige me by handing over this note to the Vienna Bureau?'"

"I had no reason to suspect that serious or base secrets were hidden in the simple, unsealed letter, and I put it among other papers. I learned the contents only when the British authorities intervened."

"It is obvious that if I knew of its contents I would have destroyed it before my arrest. Nothing was said to me in New York by the Secretary of the Austrian Embassy to indicate that I should observe any mystery in regard to it."

Mr. Archibald admitted that he knew both Ambassador von Bernstorff of Germany and Ambassador Dumba of Austria and that he had a letter of recommendation from von Bernstorff because of his intention to travel through the war zone.

"To you and to my American compatriots," he said, "I declare that I have nothing to do with the German or Austrian plans. I am under arrest and forced to return to New York simply because I am a victim of their cunning method of making me the bearer of an incriminating document."

MISSING GIRL FOUND DEAD.

Catherine Snow, Who Had Been Sick and Despondent, Died from Gas.

Search for relatives for Catherine Snow of No. 458 West One Hundred and Thirty-first Street, who disappeared from her home two weeks ago, ended today, when the young woman was found dead in a furnished room at No. 202 East Fifty-eighth Street. She had been ill and melancholy for some time and apparently ended her life by gas. She had been to a social day at the home of the place, John Seet, who was to the room for a second week's rent.

The young woman lived with her mother and two sisters, and when she left home said she was going to visit a cousin in Larchmont. When Miss Snow hired the room in which she died she was a Miss Myers, but in a purse found at her side was her name and home address in almost illegible handwriting.

'MISS SUBMARINE,' WOMAN BURGLAR, JAILED AT LAST

Confesses She Robbed 25 Houses in Passaic With Aid of Man Who Is Also Caught.

SHE IMPLICATED HIM.

Her Faculty for Suddenly Appearing and Then Vanishing Won Nickname She Bears.

The woman burglar who was dubbed "Miss Submarine" by the Jersey police because of her habit of appearing suddenly at night, robbing a house and then disappearing again, is at last lodged in the Passaic County Jail and has confessed to robbing not less than twenty-five houses in Passaic. She also "pouched" on her partner, John Martin, and he was arrested this afternoon at the home they have occupied at No. 128 Myrtle Avenue, Passaic, for the last six months.

The lost these two have gathered, according to the young woman, amounted to many thousands of dollars in jewelry and silver ware.

At first the young woman refused to tell anything about herself, but the police finally prevailed and she said she was Catherine Collins. Where she and Martin had been before they went to Passaic she would not tell, but the police say that the two are "wanted" in New York and Chicago and elsewhere for their burglarious activities.

The arrest of "Miss Submarine" was a chance which Chief of Detectives Turner of Passaic took, after gathering all the descriptions he could of persons who had been seen about the houses before they were robbed. As the same woman had been seen in each case, Turner sent his men out to make the city, and "Miss Submarine" was overhauled and towed to jail.

She and Martin were arraigned this afternoon before Judge Costello in Passaic.

SLASHER CAUGHT, ADMITS ATTACKS ON GIRLS

Jersey City Youth Who Carried Knife Haunted Office Buildings to Find Victims.

A youth who has been terrorizing girls employed in offices in the big buildings around Fortieth Street and Park Avenue by hiding in washrooms and slashing at them with a knife was arrested today by Detectives Hooker and Houser at No. 103 Park Avenue and arraigned in Yorkville Police Court. He is charged with felonious assault on Leslie Cooper of Harrington Park, N. J., a girl employed by a dentist in the building in which the arrest was made.

The prisoner gave the name of Harry Lehr, and said he lives at No. 212 Prospect Street, Jersey City. He is eighteen years old and admits that he has been sneaking into office buildings and washrooms for months. The assault on Miss Cooper occurred on Aug. 13. She was in the women's washroom on the eighth floor when a man suddenly appeared and stabbed her in the leg, inflicting a wound which required eight stitches. On the same day a man tried to stab a girl named May Brooks, but she fought him off.

Miss Brooks identified Lehr today as her assailant and Lehr admitted that he had attacked her. The prisoner was held in the jail. He denies the attack on Miss Cooper, and is unable to identify him, as she saw only his arm and the knife.

TWO DEAD, ONE DYING AFTER AUTO HITS POLE

Three New Yorkers Victims of Tragedy on Long Island Road.

Two men were killed and another was fatally injured when an automobile in which they were going from Hicksville to Massapequa, L. I., struck a telephone pole late last night. The dead are Joseph Killian of Seventy-third Street and First Avenue, Manhattan, and Edward Janidek of No. 1371 First Avenue. William Desely, a cafe proprietor, of No. 1310 First Avenue is near death in the Nassau Hospital.

The wrecked auto was a low-lying car of the racing type and was apparently going at high speed when the accident occurred a mile south of Hicksville. Marks on the road showed plainly where it skidded and then doubled across the road, striking another pole fifty feet away and overturning.

Killian was hurled from the machine when the first pole was struck and landed upon his head. He was instantly killed. The other two men held their seats after the first impact and were whirled across the road and buried under the car when it overturned.

Herbert Sweeney, a switchman, found it and after giving the thing a wide berth it was gingerly placed in a bucket of water by Policeman O'Connell and then taken to the East Eighty-eighth Street station. There it was opened and later sent to be examined by Owen Egan, the Fire Department's bomb expert.

PASSENGER BOATS CRASH DURING FOG; 100 ARE LANDED

Collision Off the Maine Coast.

STONEINGTON, Me., Sept. 8.—The passenger steamers J. T. Morse and Pemaquid were in collision to-day in a thick fog on Turkey Island here.

The Morse was badly damaged below the waterline and was beached. All her passengers, who numbered nearly 100, were landed safely.

The Morse, owned by the Eastern Steamship Corporation, and commanded by Capt. Shute, was making her morning trip from Rockland to Bar Harbor, while the Pemaquid, one of the Maine Central Railroad steamers, with Capt. Westcott in charge, was on her way from Bangorville to Rockland, with about fifty passengers.

Both steamers were proceeding cautiously through the dense fog a few minutes before 8 o'clock when they came together a short distance outside this harbor. The iron bow of the Pemaquid struck in the wooden hull of the other steamer which quickly began to fill.

The Morse was beached on Moose Island in a few minutes and the passengers were put ashore there with out accident. They were brought here and transferred to another steamer later in the day. The Pemaquid stood by to render any assistance possible. The Morse probably will be taken to Rockland for repairs.

HUDSON BOAT, 70 ABOARD, HELPLESS FOR AN HOUR

Steamer Albany Loses Paddle Wheel Off Crum Elbow—Another Vessel Takes Passengers Off.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Striking a rock or a drifting log in the Hudson River, off Crum Elbow, three miles north of the Poughkeepsie Bridge, at 7:45 o'clock this morning in a dense fog, the Albany Day Line steamer Albany lost her starboard paddle wheel and lay helpless in the swift current until her seventy passengers were taken off nearly an hour later by the steamer Homer Hamdell of the Central Hudson Steamboat Company.

J. Reynolds, the purser of the Albany, who was landed with the passengers, said the Albany was making her way slowly through one of the heaviest fogs of the season when the paddle wheel was smashed to kindling.

Mr. Reynolds secured transportation over the New York Central Railroad for the passengers for New York, most of whom were women. The purser said there was no panic and no boats were lowered.

The Albany left Kingston at 7 o'clock this morning on her daily run to New York. Officials of the Day Line have ordered the steamer towed to Highland.

EVEN "SMOKY JOE" FOUND THIS FIRE TOO SMOKY

Deputy Chief and His Squad Had to Work in Relays to Master Leonard Street Blaze.

A fire, smoky enough to satisfy even "Smoky Joe" Martin, the Deputy Chief, started this afternoon on the top floor of No. 27 Leonard Street, a six-story building occupied by Himmelman and Taylor, dry goods dealers, packers and balers. Before it was extinguished it had caused $25,000 damage. Twenty-five men employed there were out at lunch when the blaze started, but there were fifteen girls on the second floor, who at the alarm became panic-stricken, but escaped without injury.

The firemen, headed by "Smoky Joe," tried to fight the flames by going up the main stairway, but the smoke drove them back. Then with the aid of a water tower they took up strategies and played their powerful streams. They had to work in relays on account of the smoke.

Attorney General Woodbury Gives Ruling Applying to County Primaries.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The signatures of three per cent of any county's enrolled voters are sufficient to designate a candidate for county office for the primaries. In an interpretation of the Election Law, Attorney General Woodbury rendered this opinion here today.

POLK TO SEE LANSING.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Frank L. Polk, former New York Corporation Counsel, recently appointed State Department counsellor, arrived here today to confer with Secretary Lansing. He probably will be sworn in next week.

THREAT TO SLAY MOHR AND GIRL CHARGED TO WIFE

Office Employee of Doctor Declared to Have Told of Alleged Statement.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 8.—That Mrs. Mohr declared on several occasions that she was going to kill Dr. C. Franklin Mohr and Miss Emily G. Burger, the doctor's assistant, is reported today to be one of the allegations in the long statement obtained by the police from Miss Florence Ornabee, who was employed in Mohr's office before his murder.

Miss Ornabee alleged further, according to the police, that Mrs. Mohr, at one time said: "I am going to get the doctor and spoil her (Miss Burger's) beauty with vitriol."

The police declared today that they obtained damaging evidence in the Mohr case by having a man and woman call on the three negroes, who are held, representing themselves as emissaries from Mrs. Mohr. Heals, Dr. Mohr's chauffeur on the night of the death-ride with Miss Burger, told these supposed emissaries, the police say, to tell Mrs. Mohr that he and the two other negroes would "stick by her."

Victor Brown, another one of the alleged conspirators, according to the police asked one of the visitors to beg Mrs. Mohr to hire an attorney for him. The police say Brown also asked one of the jail callers to see his sister, May Daley, at No. 26 Gadsden Street, Providence, and ask her to swear he was at her house at about the time Dr. Mohr and his office girl were shot.

Brown, the police say, slipped through the bars of his cell a note to his sister "framing" the alibi. The police allege they have this note.

The State authorities announced today that all the evidence against the three negroes and also Mrs. Mohr will be submitted to the Grand Jury convening Sept. 20. The aid of the Attorney General's office was invoked to prevent the case going over until the December term.

Mrs. Mohr and the negroes are to be arraigned in the District Court on Sept. 16. The Attorney General will ask a postponement then for two weeks, so the State's evidence may not be introduced prior to its going before the Grand Jury.

ZIMBALIST IN AUTO WRECK.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 8.—A telegraph pole probably saved the life of Efrim Zimbalist, Russian violinist, husband of Alma Gluck. After his automobile had overturned at the foot of a two-story hill it rested against the pole, saving him from being crushed.

Mr. Zimbalist's only injury was a flesh wound on the middle finger of his right hand, which will not prevent him from playing. His companion, Mr. Archibald, cashier of the Lake George Bank, suffered the fracture of two ribs in the accident yesterday.
